

Ayşe Ertuğrul is Lecturer at Bahçeşehir University in Department of Economics since February 2010. A Turkish native, she received her undergraduate degree from University of Galatasaray, Istanbul in 2001 and Master degree from University of Paris 1 in 2002. Her research fields are macroeconomics, international economics, and finance. Her current research looks at linkages between fiscal and monetary policies and financial flows. She also studies the topics of speculative episodes and financial bubbles, and systemic crises prevention mechanisms.