

Profile

Dr. Vassilios Papavassiliou is Assistant Professor of Finance at University College Dublin, UCD Michael Smurfit Graduate Business School. He earned his Ph.D in Finance from the Queen's University of Belfast, U.K. His research interests span the areas of market microstructure, high-frequency finance, liquidity, financial contagion, FinTech, and banking and risk management.

He holds a Visiting Research Fellowship at the Rimini Centre for Economic Analysis (RCEA) in Canada. Dr. Papavassiliou brings nearly 20 years of significant experience in investment banking and has held senior management positions in both multinational and Greek domestic banking institutions.