

George Monokroussos is a Scientific /Technical Support Officer of the Joint Research Centre of the European Commission. His previous affiliations include the State University of New York at Albany, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, and the World Bank. His research and teaching areas are in econometrics and in macroeconomics. His work has been published in outlets such as the Journal of Money, Credit and Banking, the International Journal of Forecasting, Computational Economics, Economics Letters. He holds a PhD from the University of California, San Diego.